

RESEARCH RESOURCES ON CAMPUS

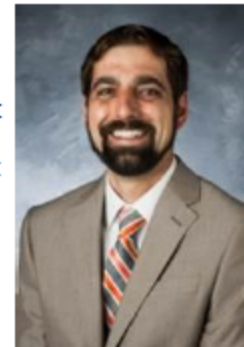

Teresa Mangum, Director—Obermann Center for Advanced Studies

A Professor in Gender, Women's, and Sexuality Studies, Mangum was appointed as Director of the Obermann Center for Advanced Studies in 2010. She is the author of Married, Middle-brow, and Militant: Sarah Grand and the New Woman Novel (1998); editor of A Cultural History of Women: Volume 5: The Age of Empire, 1800-1920 (Berg 2013); and guest editor of special issues of Philological Quarterly, Nineteenth-Century Contexts, Victorian Periodicals Review, and the Journal of Aging Studies. With Anne Valk of Brown University, she co-edits the book series Humanities and Public Life for the University of Iowa Press.

Aaron Kline, Associate Director—Iowa Social Science Research Center

Aaron Kline is the associate director of the Iowa Social Science Research Center. Aaron assists the director with day-to-day center administration, in addition to providing social science faculty with grant development support including project feasibility, timeline development, and budget creation. Previously, Aaron served as a research support specialist in the Department of Occupational and Environmental Health where he assisted with day-to-day center administration, coordinating multiple, concurrent research and education programs, as well as supporting grant development and implementation endeavors. Aaron has more than seven years of experience in developing, implementing, and evaluating grant-funded programs in a higher education setting.

TUESDAY, 10/18/16
3:45-4:45 PM

Room 203
Samuel L. Becker
Communication
Studies Building

Individuals with disabilities are encouraged to attend all University of Iowa-sponsored events. If you are a person with a disability who requires an accommodation in order to participate in this program, contact the department at commstudies-inquiry@uiowa.edu or (319) 335-0575.