

Are there violent consequences of “too much” neighboring?

According to prevailing assumptions, visiting and helping neighbors is beneficial and produces positive collective outcomes... but contradictory evidence suggests that frequent neighboring may promote violence

Neighboring and Violent Crime:

Frequency of Neighboring Matters:

“proximity creates conflict, leisure feeds it, publicity encourages it, loyalty collectivizes it”

- Cooney, 1998, The Dark Side of Community